

Madeline L. Brookshire

Associate

mbrookshire@foxrothschild.com

Washington, DC
Tel: 202.461.3114
Fax: 202.461.3102

Madeline focuses her litigation practice on the aviation industry.

She represents airlines, repair stations, pilots, mechanics and crewmembers in Federal Aviation Administration investigations, civil penalty actions, drug and alcohol testing matters, and certificate suspension and revocation proceedings. A former FAA attorney, Madeline brings a practical view of how the agency builds cases and how clients can mitigate risk.

Madeline has appeared numerous times before the National Transportation Safety Board.

Services

- Litigation
- Aviation

Before Fox Rothschild

Madeline joined us from the Federal Aviation Administration, where she was an attorney-adviser in the Aviation Litigation Division of the FAA's Office of the Chief Counsel. Before that, Madeline was a law clerk to the FAA's Chief Administrative Judge in the Office of Adjudication.

During law school, Madeline was a legal intern with the Business Services Directorate at the Oak Ridge Institute for Science and Education at Oak Ridge National Laboratory. Madeline was also a legal extern with the Knox County District Attorney's Office in General Sessions Court.

Bar Admissions

- District of Columbia
- Tennessee

Education

- Lincoln Memorial University, Duncan School of Law (J.D., 2024)
- University of Tennessee, Knoxville (B.S.)