Over a Decade of Strategic Growth

Prior to joining Fox, I primarily represented my clients in regulatory and litigation matters. Now, with the resources available throughout the firm, I serve as a one-stop source for their legal needs – from employment issues and contracts, to land use, zoning and construction matters and so much more. I supervise this work for my clients, managing it and ensuring its progress. In terms of litigation, although I handle trials myself, my expertise lies in areas other than civil motions, so I collaborate with and trust my colleagues to lay the groundwork for successful outcomes in those matters.

As the automotive sector expands in both scope and complexity, merging with a prominent national law firm like Fox Rothschild guaranteed our clients would receive the full spectrum representation necessitated by today's industry landscape. State and regional boundaries within the automotive industry continue to dissolve, and so our clients require coast-to-coast representation, without limitations to the simplicity or complexity of matters that can be handled. With the vast resources we now enjoy as part of Fox, our clients continue to receive the personalized attention and prompt responsiveness that was a hallmark of Aboyoun Dobbs, yet now on a national scale through Fox.

Joining Fox has been transformative for my career. As I was making the move to Fox – and before I even set foot in the New York office – firm leadership lined up colleagues to assist me with some exceptionally large and complex litigation matters for my clients. That extraordinary level of assistance enabled me to seamlessly handle those representations.

The support here is second to none, from the highest echelons of leadership and administration to the business service professionals throughout the firm. I've also broadened the scope of legal services I can offer to my clients, because the collaboration here from colleagues in other practice areas is outstanding. I am a patent litigator and trial attorney, but I can provide my clients with real estate, trademarks and a whole range of other services that I would not have previously been able to give to them. And delivering those services effortlessly through one firm makes my clients' lives so much easier.

*The move to Fox has been amazing and so impactful. Through the resources available at Fox, I'm serving my long-standing clients in new ways. A legacy client had a unique litigation filed against it, and I had Fox colleagues with exactly the niche expertise needed to successfully handle the case. Another client changed industries and faced matters requiring legal counsel with this industry-specific experience. And who is the preeminent lawyer in that industry? None other than one of my Fox colleagues. Our litigation group in Oklahoma City handles matters for Fox attorneys and clients connected to other firm offices. My existing clients have commended the many resources now available to them, and those clients continue to bring new and challenging litigation to us, confident that Fox is equipped to tackle the issues.

The move to Fox Rothschild helped us to grow our team's practice in multiple ways. The rate structure allows us to be ultra-competitive in securing new work. The firm accommodated our technology needs and prioritized the innovation we require to serve our clients. We have access to an uncommon amount of subject matter expertise from our colleagues here at Fox, who work across a large swath of practice areas that touch the legal concerns of our clients. And Fox's expansive geographic reach allowed us to extend our presence to serve clients in more locations where they needed our services.
