Drew is a skilled litigator and adviser who counsels businesses, individuals, and governmental entities on a wide range of complex legal issues.

He is adept at contesting and resolving disputes in state and federal courts, mediation and arbitration – or even outside the formal litigation process. His experience includes complex financial claims, business torts, construction and land use matters, banking and investor issues, and corporate governance disputes.

Recent Matters*

- Won summary judgment in favor of manufacturing company against private investors claiming fraud and fraudulent transfer of assets.
- Secured dismissal of copyright claims against a public entity arising out of a construction project.
- Negotiated a favorable settlement in an unfair competition and trade secrets claim for a regional industrial distribution company.
- Won summary judgment dismissal in favor of majority shareholders sued for breach of fiduciary duty and minority oppression.
- Recovered millions of dollars lost by public school districts in securities fraud orchestrated by financial advisor.
- Negotiated favorable settlement of class action suit against commercial bakery.
- Prevailed in a federal appeal in a truth-in-lending case against a regional bank, defending the lower court's summary judgment dismissal.
- Won dismissal of tort claims by terminated employee against public company.
- Secured dismissal of all claims against developer arising out of zoning dispute from neighboring property.
