Hunter focuses his practice on resolving disputes in the construction industry.

A former civil engineer, his insider knowledge of the field helps him recommend risk-mitigation strategies that are specific to each client.

Hunter represents owners, contractors and subcontractors in construction-related matters such as:

- Filing and enforcing mechanics liens.
- Contract disputes.
- Alleged professional negligence, errors and omissions in project designs.
- Delay claims.
- Defective construction claims.
- Changes in project scope.

Hunter also advises clients regarding Occupational Safety and Health Administration violations and regulatory compliance.
