Mark is a solutions-oriented corporate and health law attorney who helps clients close deals efficiently while balancing risk effectively.

A member of the firm's Health Care Transaction Practice Group, Mark is well-versed in the complexities of health care sector mergers and acquisitions, recapitalizations, buy-outs, joint ventures and other strategic transactions.

Mark advises clients across a range of industries, including large and small medical practices, publicly traded companies and their subsidiaries, private equity sponsors and portfolio companies, private investors, nonprofits, clinical laboratories, management services organizations, dental practices, software companies and staffing agencies.

Beyond transactional work, Mark counsels businesses on general corporate matters, including:

- Entity formation
- Governance and bylaws
- Contract drafting and negotiation
- Operating agreements
- Shareholder agreements and redemptions
- Vendor and service agreements
- Employment and independent contractor arrangements

Mark also advises clients on federal and state health care regulatory compliance, including matters involving the Anti-Kickback Statute, Stark Law, HIPAA, Corporate Practice of Medicine, Medicare, Medicaid, clinical licensure and medical cannabis.
