Michael is a seasoned litigator who assists clients in resolving a broad range of commercial and environmental disputes in the state and federal trial and appellate courts.

His commercial litigation experience includes complex business and contract disputes, probate matters and trust and estate litigation.

In the area of environmental law, Michael represents clients at the appellate level in matters involving soil and water contamination, including claims filed under the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act (CERCLA), the New Jersey Spill Act and the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act (RCRA). He has also represented businesses in appeals involving environmental insurance coverage for Natural Resource Damages and contamination/cleanup costs. In addition, he advises clients on limiting their environmental risk exposure.

Michael's appellate experience includes cases before the New Jersey Supreme Court, the Superior Court of New Jersey – Appellate Division, the 3rd Circuit and the U.S. Supreme Court
