An experienced trial lawyer, Randy is Co-Chair of the firm's Product Liability & Mass Torts Group and represents clients throughout the United States in product liability defense and business and commercial disputes.

His trial experience and abilities are recognized by his admission as a Fellow of the American College of Trial Lawyers. The College has a highly selective, invitation-only membership and is among the premier legal associations in North America.

Randy has been national or regional counsel for manufacturers in the HVAC, transportation, food, industrial controls and processes, construction, agricultural equipment, pharmaceutical, consumer products and chemical industries. He has tried more than 70 cases in state and federal courts throughout the country, including Minnesota, California, New York, Florida, Texas, Louisiana, Pennsylvania, Kansas, Michigan and Oklahoma.

In addition to litigation, he advises on product liability prevention, mass and serial tort claims strategy, compliance with industry and government regulations, and drafting and placement of product warnings and instructions.

Randy has guided clients through their dealings with industry regulations and federal agencies and statutes, including the CPSC, EPA, OSHA, USDA, FDA, CSB, NHTSA and DOT, as well as their state counterparts. He also represents professionals before State Licensing Boards, including the Minnesota Board of Dentistry.
